Dear Veterinarian:

Horse owners who frequently travel out of state with their animals for horse shows and festivals can take advantage of a new agreement between southern states that will eliminate the need to obtain a monthly Certificate of Veterinary Inspection (CVI). The event permit shall be valid and accepted by each state which has entered into this agreement. Exceptions by states may be added or deleted, and each state should be contacted in advance of travel for possible exceptions.

The agreement between Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia will allow horse owners to apply for an Equine Event Permit that will be good for up to six months in any of the listed states. Some states had reciprocal agreements in the past, but this is the first agreement of its kind in the south.

To receive a permit, West Virginia horse owners must send proof of a negative Coggin's test and Certificate of Veterinary Inspection along with an application filled out in full and signed by a licensed veterinarian. Owners must also submit proof of permanent identification, which includes tattoos, brands, microchips or digital or paper photos showing the left and right sides, as well as a frontal view, of the horse. All photos must include a full view of the horse from the tips of the ears to the hooves. Digital photos may be sent on disc with the documentation. Please make photo titles clearly identifiable by owner name and horse name. If sending hard copy photos, they must be clearly printed to scan well. Please staple or clip all documentation together when mailing.

The issued permit will be good for six months, unless the Coggin's test expires beforehand. Owners will still be required to carry the Coggin's information and original CVI with them when they travel. Owners will also be required to travel with a microchip reader if the equine is identified by microchip.

Equine owners carrying an equine event permit will also be required to carry an accurate, up-to-date event itinerary that documents each equine movement as it happens. An itinerary form is included with the application.

If you have any questions please call our office at (304) 558-2214.

Sincerely,

Dr. Vanessa L. Harper
